The Governing Body of Bedworth Heath and Atherstone Nursery School adopted this policy on December 2024.

1. Policy Statement

The school governing body is committed to being a fair and reasonable employer and expects reasonable standards of conduct from employees. It will support employees through guidance, information, advice, training or other suitable approaches to achieve acceptable standards of conduct. However, from time to time an employee's conduct may fall below the required standards. This policy provides a framework to ensure that, where necessary, an employee can improve their conduct to an acceptable level. It also ensures that conduct issues are managed fairly and consistently across the organisation.

Please note as a matter of policy in all formal meetings/hearings that the school requires that all attendees turn off any electronic devices to avoid unnecessary interruptions during the meeting and does not allow recording of meetings.

2. Scope of the policy

This policy applies to all teaching and support staff regardless of grade, position, hours worked per week or whether their contract is permanent or fixed term.

In applying this procedure, it is important to distinguish between capability and disciplinary matters. Generally, the disciplinary policy and procedure applies when there is a concern about an employee's unacceptable or improper behaviour. Capability is about the ability to do their job. Poor conduct comes under disciplinary and poor performance under capability.

Actions taken by employees outside working hours may also fall within the scope of this policy if there is an impact on the employee's ability and/or suitability to do their job, or the actions may bring the school or employee into disrepute. In the case of actions taken by employees outside of working hours, advice can be provided by your HR provider.

3. Objectives

These procedures are primarily designed to help and encourage employees to improve behaviour rather than just being a way of imposing punitive measures. It aims to clarify the rights and responsibilities of the school and employees and to promote fairness and order in any disciplinary action and for this to be applied in a consistent, constructive, and reasonable fashion.

The school reserves the right to invoke any stage of the disciplinary procedures according to the seriousness of any unsatisfactory conduct regardless of any management warnings.

Where an employee is subject to more than one allegation relating to their conduct, these issues may be dealt with together, if appropriate.

Statutory requirements make it necessary for the school/academy to draw the attention of the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) and the Teaching Regulation Agency to certain cases involving teachers and other school-based employees.

Depending on the circumstances, other policies may be followed in place of, or in parallel with, the Disciplinary Procedure. For example, absence and incapability due to ill health will not normally be addressed under this policy. (Exceptions may be where the school believe the absence is not for a genuine reason). In these cases, reference should be made to the Sickness Absence Management Policy. Concerns about performance will be considered under the Capability Procedure and/or the Appraisal Policy (for teachers).

4. Misconduct/gross misconduct

Any breach of an employee's Terms and Conditions of Employment, any conduct, which the school considers unsatisfactory or prejudicial to its interests, or any failure to meet the required standards of work, may render an employee liable to disciplinary action.

The list in Appendix 1 is not exhaustive but provides examples that the school may deem (depending upon the nature, circumstances and severity of the incident) to be a breach of conduct or gross misconduct.

5. Principles

The following principles will apply in formal disciplinary cases to which this procedure applies:

- No disciplinary action will be taken against an employee until the case has been investigated
- The nature of the allegation against an employee will be notified to them in writing
- Employees will be given no less than 5 working days' notice of any disciplinary hearing (10 days' notice for gross misconduct allegations) unless agreed by both parties
- Employees and the employer may call witnesses as part of any hearing under the formal stages of this procedure
- Employees will not normally be dismissed for the first breach of discipline except in the case of gross misconduct when the sanction could be dismissal without notice
- Employees will have the right to appeal the outcome of the formal stage of the procedure
- The procedure may be implemented at any stage if an employee's misconduct warrants such action. There will be occasions when a final written warning or dismissal is justified for a first offence
- The notice of the hearing will include the possible outcomes
- Breaches of discipline need not necessarily be of the same nature to permit progression to the next stage of the procedure
- At any formal disciplinary investigation or hearing, employees may be accompanied by a work colleague, with their agreement, or by an accredited professional association or trade union representative
- Each step and action taken will be taken without unreasonable delay
- The timing and duration of hearings will be reasonable for all parties involved
- Employees must take all reasonable steps to attend the disciplinary hearing.
- Failure to attend a disciplinary hearing, without a reasonable explanation, could result in the hearing continuing in the employee's absence and a decision taken on the evidence available
- Consideration will be given to facilitating reasonable adjustments required, in accordance with the Equality Act 2010, for example allowing an interpreter at a formal meeting

6. Management Advice (Informal Resolution)

Depending on the seriousness of the allegations of misconduct, every effort will be made to resolve the matter by informal discussions with the member of staff before taking formal disciplinary action.

This will involve the line manager discussing the perceived shortfall in conduct with the member of staff concerned and advising on what standards are expected. The employee should be asked for an explanation. The discussion should also outline what needs to be done to improve and when a follow-up meeting will be held. Support or training should be offered where relevant and written notes taken by the line manager with a copy provided to the employee.

Informal action does not constitute disciplinary action (although a repetition of the conduct or a failure to improve may lead to formal action), and there is no right to be accompanied or right of appeal at the informal stage.

The informal approach should be used where formal disciplinary action may be disproportionate to the alleged misconduct.

Where this process has not led to the desired outcome, such as in cases of repeated occurrences of minor misconduct, or where the matter is more serious, then progression to the formal part of the policy may be required.

Advice should be sought from your HR provider before moving into any formal procedure.

7. Definition and Separation of Roles

There are several distinct roles to be taken during disciplinary proceedings. It is essential that they are clearly defined and that the person carrying out the role is clearly identified.

7.1. The Commissioning Manager

The commissioning manager, normally the headteacher or senior school leader / manager (e.g. business manager) or chair of governors, will decide whether an allegation is sufficiently serious to warrant a formal investigation under this procedure. If so, they will appoint an investigating officer to carry out an investigation. The commissioning manager will receive the report and determine the next steps. If the headteacher faces an allegation or has had any prior involvement in the matter under investigation, including as a witness, the role of commissioning manager will be assumed by the chair of governors.

7.2. The Investigating Officer

The investigating officer will normally be an appropriate member of the school's leadership team or other manager. Care must be taken to ensure that the investigating officer is able to carry out the investigation impartially. If the headteacher conducts the investigation, the role of the commissioning manager must be assumed by the chair of governors, and any disciplinary hearing conducted by a panel of governors. If appropriate, consideration can be given to appointing an investigating officer from outside the school.

On receipt of the allegation(s), the investigating officer will carry out an investigation to establish the facts, which will include interviewing witnesses and the employee against whom allegations have been made, giving reasonable notice of such a meeting including the outline of allegation(s). The employee will be invited to put forward any additional witnesses who have not yet been interviewed.

When the investigation is complete, the investigating officer will submit a report to the commissioning manager presenting all the evidence, including statements from the witnesses (together with evidence collected during the investigation) and will recommend whether there is a case to answer.

7.3. The Person or Panel who conducts the Hearing

Where dismissal is a possible outcome, the case will normally be heard by a panel of three governors. According to statutory guidance, this will also apply in the following circumstances:

- i. Where the governing body of a school with a religious character has agreed policies and procedures that provide for governor involvement in the interests of preserving the school's religious character
- ii. Where the headteacher is suspended or subject to disciplinary or capability procedures
- iii. Where the Authority has made formal representations to the chair of governors on the grounds of serious concerns about the performance of the headteacher

It may be necessary to co-opt governors from other schools where it is not possible to form a panel from the school's own governing body.

In all other cases the headteacher / senior school leader / manager, including where they fulfil the role of commissioning manager, may hear the case. Advice should be sought from the school's HR Advisory service.

7.4. The Presenting Officer

The case will normally be presented at the hearing by either the commissioning manager or the investigating officer. The commissioning manager may jointly present the case with the investigating officer. It is ultimately for the commissioning manager to determine which person(s) shall present the case on behalf of the school.

7.5. Expert Advice at the Hearing

At any disciplinary hearing, including during the subsequent deliberations leading to a judgement, the panel may be advised by a member of their HR provider.

At any hearing where dismissal is to be considered, the following provisions apply:

- a) At any community or voluntary controlled school, the Local Authority must be invited to send an HR Advisor. The school must send all the papers for the hearing to the HR Advisor no later than the date on which they are sent to the employee
- b) In voluntary aided, foundation schools and academies, it is recommended that an HR Advisor is invited to attend. Papers for the hearing should be sent to the HR Advisor no later than the date on which the papers are sent to the employee.

8. Allegations about Safeguarding Children (Child Protection)

Allegations about the safeguarding and protection of children must be handled in accordance with statutory guidance and the procedures for managing allegations against staff. Relevant statutory guidance 'Keeping Children Safe in Education' and 'Working Together to Safeguard Children' (DFE) can be accessed, respectively, at:

Keeping Children Safe in Education

Working Together to Safeguard Children

Also see the guidance available on the Warwickshire Safeguarding website which has been developed to help easily access information about safeguarding adults and children across Warwickshire.

Allegations against people who work with children/young people

These procedures are no longer limited to allegations involving “significant harm/risk of significant harm” but include any allegation that an employee or volunteer has:

- behaved in a way that has harmed a child, or may have harmed a child
- possibly committed a criminal offence against or related to a child
- behaved towards a child or children in a way that indicates he or she may pose a risk of harm to children
- behaved or may have behaved in a way that indicates they may not be suitable to work with children.

The role of the Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO) is crucial in handling all allegations of this kind (not just in relation to schools). The LADO has a statutory duty to ensure that allegations about safeguarding are handled properly and expeditiously.

The key points for a responsible individual (typically the headteacher or chair of governors) to follow when made aware of an allegation of this nature are:

- a) Read and understand Keeping Children Safe in Education
- b) Inform the LADO within 1 working day of any allegation that comes to the school's attention and that meets the criteria above, the information to include the name of the employee and the name, address, and date of birth of the pupil(s)/student(s), where relevant
- c) Discuss a risk assessment with the LADO to inform assessment and decision about suspension
- d) Whilst a preliminary assessment of the available evidence can be made to inform the referral in b), no attempt should be made to carry out an investigation
- e) A strategy/position of trust (POT) meeting will determine whether the allegation should be investigated by the Police or by some other agency or by the school under its disciplinary procedure
- f) If the matter is handed back to the school, whether at the first POT meeting or at some later stage, consideration should be given to any recommendations from the meeting.

See also the following sections where LADO involvement may be appropriate:

- Misuse of school computers and allied equipment and software
- Suspension.

9. Financial Irregularity

If a case in a school maintained by the Local Authority involves alleged financial irregularity, corruption or fraud, Internal Audit must be contacted at the earliest possible opportunity and kept informed, without alerting the employee at this stage. At this stage, consideration will be given to police involvement, and Internal Audit must be consulted before a decision is made

Internal Audit will determine whether the matter should be referred to the police

Similar principles apply to Academies where the funding agency must be informed.

10. Misuse of School Computers and Allied Equipment and software

Any allegations of a misuse of the school's IT equipment shall be considered under the relevant school policies covering IT users, social media, and internet use. Computers and allied equipment and software are the property of the school; therefore, examination of such equipment or software can take place without permission of the individual.

- a) If there are suspicions that an employee is misusing school equipment (e.g., inappropriate communications or accessing or downloading inappropriate material), the headteacher will carry out an initial assessment of the circumstances, without alerting the employee at this stage.
- b) Where suspicions are that the misuse of equipment relates to the accessing or downloading of inappropriate material, the LADO must be informed without delay. They will determine whether the matter should be referred to the police. Allegations against people who work with children/young people

11. Criminal Activity

If an employee is suspected of carrying out a criminal activity, an internal disciplinary investigation should not be initiated whilst the matter is being investigated by the police/Internal Audit without authorisation. Please contact your HR provider for advice.

12. Disciplinary Action Involving a Professional Association / Trade Union Representative or Relating to Trade Union Activities

If the employee is a trade union representative or if the allegation relates to trade union activity, no action under the disciplinary procedure will be taken until the matter has been discussed with a full time official (i.e., regional officer) of the relevant union. Advice should be sought from your HR provider when such a scenario arises.

13. The Investigation / The start of the formal stage

Alleged instances of misconduct should be acted upon promptly.

Following a complaint or allegation, it may be clear that a formal investigation is required, but, in some cases, a preliminary assessment of the available evidence will be appropriate to determine whether the allegation could have occurred. Once a decision has been made that a formal investigation is needed, the employee should be informed in writing of the nature of the allegation/s.

Where the allegation concerns the headteacher, the chair of governors should seek support from their HR provider.

The investigating officer will investigate the matter thoroughly. The employee will be given a copy of the record of their investigatory meeting. Any amendments should be clearly stated on the record of the meeting. This document will form part of the evidence presented at any subsequent hearing.

The investigation should be completed as quickly as is reasonably possible in the circumstances.

In cases involving sexual misconduct or harassment, it may be appropriate to appoint an investigator of the same gender as the complainant, who could be from outside the school, to assist with any investigation.

13.1. Right to be accompanied

An employee has the right to be accompanied and supported, during the investigation and at each formal stage of the procedure where action may be taken (including appeal), by a fellow employee or an accredited Professional Association / Trade Union Representative and no-one else.

The Professional Association / Trade Union representative or work colleague should be allowed to:

- address the hearing to put and sum up the employee's case
- respond on behalf of the employee to any views expressed at the meeting and confer with them during the hearing.

The Professional Association / Trade Union representative or work colleague is not permitted to:

- answer questions on behalf of the employee
- address the hearing if the employee indicates that they do not wish them to do so
- prevent the school from explaining the case
- prevent any other person at the hearing from making their contribution

Internal school Professional Association / Trade Union representatives or a work colleague are entitled to paid time off during normal working time to fulfil this responsibility, which includes time for preparation of the case as well as to attend the hearing. This should be agreed with the Headteacher.

The employee should provide the name of their representative in advance. If the chosen representative is unavailable at the time of the hearing, the employee may request a postponement (once) to a time that is convenient to all parties within a reasonable timescale not normally exceeding five working days.

An employee will not be subject to any detriment by the employer for having acted as a companion in disciplinary proceedings.

13.2. Suspension

Suspension should not be an automatic act when an allegation is reported. All options to avoid suspension should be considered prior to taking that step, should be risk assessed and appropriate advice sought (see below re: allegations relating to children). However, an employee may potentially be suspended on full pay in the following circumstances:

- a) Where a child or children are at risk of harm
- b) Where there is an allegation which if proven may be deemed gross misconduct
- c) For the protection of colleagues, property, or the employee
- d) Where it is believed that the continuing presence of the employee in the workplace could interfere with the conduct of the investigation, including the taking of statements
- e) There are concerns regarding health and safety.

Suspension does not imply that any decision about the allegations has been made. The decision to suspend may be made by the headteacher or the governing body, but as it will have a serious impact on the employee, advice should first be sought from the HR provider.

Consideration should also be given to the following short -term alternatives to suspension:

- Working from home
- Paid leave of absence
- Working in a different location
- Working in a more closely supervised environment.

Such alternatives should not normally be used for more than necessary to allow time for a preliminary assessment of the evidence that is readily available.

Where the allegation concerns the safeguarding of children, a risk assessment must be discussed with the LADO. Once this assessment has been made, a decision about suspension can be taken. See Allegations about Safeguarding Children (Child Protection) above.

During suspension a named contact will be assigned to keep in touch with the employee.

Suspension will be reviewed periodically (normally every 4 weeks) by the commissioning manager to consider whether circumstances surrounding the suspension have changed. If circumstances require, the commissioning manager will make a recommendation to the chair of governors that the suspension be lifted.

Where it is not possible to review the suspension within the normal review period (e.g., where it falls during a period of school closure such as the summer holidays) a longer period of review should be set and the reason for this is communicated in writing to the employee.

Where the reason(s) for suspension is considered to no longer be relevant, and no new information has come to light to otherwise justify such a measure, the review should be brought forward, and steps taken to reintegrate the employee back into the workplace as soon as is reasonably practical. See also paragraphs Keeping Children Safe in Education for further information on suspension.

13.3. Witnesses

A 'witness' is not the subject of the allegation but can provide an account of the alleged incident(s).

During the investigation, factual witness statements will be taken from all relevant witnesses, which must be signed and dated. If allegations result in a disciplinary hearing, pupil names will be redacted. Only information that is directly relevant to the allegation(s) will be included. The questions that the witnesses were asked can be included in the statements to demonstrate that the witnesses have not been led by the interviewer. When statements are taken, the dates and any names quoted should be written out in full and the date of the interview should be included. Testimonials regarding an employee's character will not be accepted as witness statements, nor may witnesses be called to attend a hearing for this purpose.

A witness should be informed that:

- Any evidence provided may be included in their statement, so they should not disclose information that is irrelevant or prejudicial. They will be given one opportunity to review and amend their statement. If this involves substantial changes to the facts both versions of the statement will be included in the investigation report
- Their statement may be presented at any subsequent disciplinary hearing, and they may be called to give evidence at the hearing. They should be prepared to respond to any questions raised by the panel, employee, or their representative
- A copy of their statement will be provided to the employee if, following the investigation, a formal disciplinary hearing is held

A witness who is not a school employee may provide a witness statement (not a testimonial) but cannot be required to attend the disciplinary hearing.

Any witness to be called at a hearing must have submitted a written statement of their knowledge of the case in advance of the hearing which would be contained in the disciplinary investigation bundle provided to all parties.

Employees of the school may be requested by the commissioning manager to attend a disciplinary hearing on behalf of the school.

The employee must provide the commissioning manager with the names of any witnesses they intend to call not later than 4 working days before the hearing. All witness statements will have already been provided to the employee as part of the bundle that will have been provided when they were invited to the hearing (i.e., 5 working days before or 10 working days for gross misconduct allegations).

13.4. Statements from Pupils

This is a delicate area where the search for truth needs to be conducted in such a way as to avoid causing emotional harm to the pupil whose evidence is required.

- a) As a general principle, children should not be interviewed more than once. If a child has already been interviewed by the police or by a social care agency, in the course of an investigation into the same or similar allegations, the interview statements should be requested from the other agency and used in the school's investigation.

- b) Care needs to be taken to ensure that the pupil does not, as far as possible, feel intimidated by the process. This is particularly true for a pupil who might themselves have been the subject of the alleged misconduct. Where a formal investigation is under way, the parent / carer of the pupil should always be informed and invited to attend the interview with their child. The parent / carer should be told that an incident is being investigated and that the pupil's evidence may be used if it proves necessary to hold a formal disciplinary hearing. The pupil will not be required to attend the hearing to give evidence in person.
- c) Statements must be taken as soon as possible after the alleged incident, when recollections are likely to be clearest, and to minimise the opportunity for collusion and rumour. Pupils need to be aware that making false or malicious statements could be subject to action against them.
- d) Where the investigating officer is not well-known to the pupil, for example, if they are from outside the school, consideration should be given to asking the school's Designated Senior Person (DSP) for Child Protection to carry out this part of the investigation. The pupil should feel able to speak frankly and as far as is possible, in a situation that is not intimidating.
- e) In any event, when interviewing pupils, the investigating officer should be accompanied by a second adult, whose role is to ensure that a complete and accurate record is taken.
- f) The investigating officer, considering the age and capabilities of the pupil, should ask the pupil to write down an account of what happened. Where this is not practicable, the investigating officer must write down the pupil's account and check carefully that they have recorded accurately what the pupil has said. It will be helpful for the investigating officer to prepare questions in advance.
- g) The investigating officer should seek clarification of what the pupil saw and experienced. Leading questions must be avoided, but it is important to record the pupil's account of what happened, where and when allegedly happened, and who else might have been present during the incident under investigation.
- h) The pupil's account should, like any witness statement, indicate the time, date and place at which the account was written, the questions asked, plus the names and roles of all those present at the interview.
- i) Pupils / students under 18 must never attend a disciplinary hearing.

14. Conclusion of the Investigation

On receipt of the investigation report the commissioning manager will consider whether there is a case to answer.

If they conclude that the allegation is without foundation, no further formal action will be taken and the employee will be informed of this in writing. Management advice may be issued in such circumstances (see section 6), which may include, where appropriate, advice to reduce the risk of similar allegations being made in the future.

If the commissioning manager believes that there is a case to answer, they will arrange a disciplinary hearing.

Having considered the report and the nature of the allegation, it will be for the commissioning manager to decide what the possible outcomes of the hearing could be, and the employee will be advised of this in the letter inviting them to the hearing.

The range of possible outcomes available under this policy is:

- no further action (there may be management advice or other management action such as training given where appropriate)
- first written warning
- final written warning
- dismissal with notice
- dismissal without notice (gross misconduct).

15. Ill Health

15.1. Ill health and absence during an investigation

Sickness absence will not necessarily prevent an employee from attending a meeting. Clarification may be requested from the employee's doctor and / or occupational health about whether they are fit to attend a meeting. An employee will be given up to two opportunities to attend an investigatory meeting. If this is not possible, the investigating officer may send the employee a list of questions to respond to by post or email, either directly or through their Professional Association / Trade Union Representative. Should this prove to be unsuccessful, the investigation may need to be concluded without the employee's input. The employee should be advised of this on the second attempt to invite them to an investigatory interview. If the employee's absence results from a disability as defined in the Equality Act, appropriate adjustments to the timescales in the procedure should be considered.

15.2. Ill health and absence at a hearing

Employees should make every effort to attend the hearing. The commissioning manager may choose to arrange another date (once) if the employee has given prior notice that they will be unable to attend a hearing through ill health. In this circumstance there will only be one opportunity for the employee to request another date for the hearing. A second hearing date will be arranged through consultation with the employee (and their representative, where there is one,) within a reasonable timescale not resulting in any significant delay to the convening of the hearing. Advice should be sought from the school's HR Provider to ensure that appropriate account is taken of any disability or other possible equalities issues. If the employee is still unable to attend, they may provide a written statement to be considered at the hearing.

16. Arranging a Disciplinary Hearing

Hearings should normally be held during normal working hours.

The employee must receive a minimum of five working days' notice (ten working days' notice for gross misconduct allegations) in writing, by recorded delivery or delivery by hand, stating:

- purpose of the hearing
- allegations

- possible outcomes of the hearing
- when and where the hearing will be conducted
- who will be attending (including witnesses to be called)
- right to be accompanied by an accredited Professional Association / Trade Union Representative or a work colleague
- requirement for confidentiality
- requirement for the employee to provide all documents that they intend to present at the hearing and to indicate whether they intend to call any witnesses at least four working days before the hearing
- employee must provide the commissioning manager with six hard copies of their documents to be presented at the hearing at least four working days before the hearing
- a copy of all evidence / documentation that is to be presented at the hearing in support of the allegation.

Panel members should receive the papers to be presented, including a copy of the letter inviting the employee to the hearing, no less than three working days before the hearing.

17. The Note-Taker at a Disciplinary Hearing

A written record of the proceedings should be taken. Any member of staff at the school who takes the notes must have no conflict of interests or prior involvement / knowledge of the case and must treat all records of meetings in the strictest of confidences. The note-taker will make a record of the hearing, but not of the confidential deliberations of the Panel.

The school does not support the audio recording of disciplinary hearings unless there are exceptional circumstances for doing so. Where exceptional circumstances exist, the agreement of all parties must be obtained. Covert recording is considered gross misconduct.

18. The Disciplinary Hearing

18.1. Pre-Agreement

It is a perfectly acceptable part of disciplinary hearings for an agreement to be arrived at prior to the hearing between both parties. Where the facts are not in dispute and both parties agree on the sanction, it will not be necessary to hold a hearing. In such circumstances a formal meeting should be held to discuss the key findings of the investigation and issue the pre-agreed sanction. This approach will NOT apply to safeguarding related allegations. See 7 Allegations about Safeguarding Children (Child Protection)

18.2. Procedure for the Hearing

- a) The chair of the panel will ensure that those present are introduced to one another and remind them of the purpose of the hearing and procedure to be followed.

The chair of the panel may challenge the relevance of any evidence if it is not apparent. Wherever possible this should be investigated prior to the hearing. If no justification can be given, or it is tenuous, the chair may instruct the person presenting to make their point and / or move on.

- b) The presenting officer(s) will present the case against the employee, including calling any witnesses. The witness will read their statement and the presenting officer may ask questions.

The employee and / or their representative may subsequently ask questions of the witness, followed by questions from members of the panel. The presenting officer will be offered the opportunity to re-examine their witness.

Following questioning, witnesses will leave the room, allowing the employer to continue with the rest of their presentation or otherwise confirm that they have concluded their presentation.

When all the witnesses in support of the allegation(s) have been called, the employee and / or their representative may ask questions of the presenting officer and then finally the panel may ask questions.

- c) The employee and / or their representative will be invited to present their case, including the calling of any witnesses.

The employee and / or their representative will invite the witness to read their statement, and then they may ask questions.

The presenting officer(s) will subsequently be invited to cross-examine the witness, followed by any questions from the panel. Finally, the employee and / or their representative will be offered the opportunity to re-examine their witness.

Following questioning witnesses will leave the room allowing the employee and/or their representative to continue with the rest of their presentation or otherwise confirm that they have concluded their presentation.

The presenting officer(s) may ask questions of the employee and then finally the panel may ask questions.

- d) When all the evidence has been heard, the presenting officer sums up, without introducing any new evidence
- e) The employee or representative sums up without introducing any new evidence
- f) Both parties withdraw to enable the panel to discuss the case
- g) The panel will deliberate and reach a conclusion on:
 - i. whether on the balance of probabilities each of the allegations is proven
 - ii. what sanction, if any, is appropriate, bearing in mind that this will be limited by the possible outcomes listed in the hearing letter

The panel's decision is normally conveyed orally by the chair of the panel in the presence of both parties and will be confirmed in writing within 3 working days. The panel may, particularly after a lengthy hearing, adjourn and reconvene at another time to consider its decision. In such cases it may be agreed to communicate the outcome by telephone before confirming the decision in writing.

19. Disciplinary sanctions

19.1. Written warning

If an employee's conduct does not meet acceptable standards and informal discussions have not led to sufficient improvement or are not considered appropriate, a formal written warning may be issued after a formal investigation and hearing. A first written warning will be placed on the employee's personal file and will normally be live for a period of 12 months unless the employee is notified to the contrary. The employee will be advised of their right of appeal.

The outcome letter will set out the improvement required and may recommend a meeting with the Head Teacher as soon as possible after the hearing to discuss the outcome and recommendations and any support that may be appropriate. The letter will make it clear that failure to improve may lead to further disciplinary action.

The warning will, as a minimum, be reviewed after one calendar year, or intended duration of the warning; interim reviews may also take place. If a satisfactory standard of conduct has been maintained, the disciplinary record will be spent and the employee will be informed in writing.

19.2. Final written warning

If the misconduct is sufficiently serious, or if further misconduct occurs during the period that a first written warning is live, a final written warning may be issued following a formal investigation and hearing. The employee will be advised of their right of appeal.

A final written warning will remain live for a period of 24 months.

The outcome letter will set out the improvement required and may recommend a meeting with the headteacher as soon as possible after the hearing to discuss the outcome and recommendations and any support that may be appropriate. The letter will make it clear that failure to improve may lead to further disciplinary action.

19.3. Dismissal (including summary dismissal for gross misconduct)

Where there is further misconduct during the life of a final written warning, or where the misconduct is sufficiently serious, the employee may be dismissed with notice. If an allegation of gross misconduct is upheld, the employee will be summarily dismissed without notice.

For a community or voluntary controlled school (whose staff are employed by the County Council), a copy of the dismissal letter must be sent to the WES HR Advisory Service within 3 working days of the panel's decision. The Local Authority will then serve notice of termination of the employee's contract in writing within 14 calendar days of such notification, in accordance with the School Staffing (England) Regulations 2009 (Section 20).

20. Appeals

Where employees are dissatisfied with the outcome of the disciplinary hearing, they can appeal in writing against the decision within five working days of receiving written notification of the decision, using the form in Appendix 2. The employee's appeal must clearly state their grounds for appealing.

An employee may choose to appeal, for example, because:

- they believe a finding or sanction is unreasonable
- new evidence has come to light
- they believe the disciplinary process was procedurally flawed.

The appeal hearing will not be a re-hearing but will be before a new panel.

If, having heard the relevant parties at the appeal, the chair of the appeal hearing / panel decides to uphold the appeal, they may withdraw the warning, replace it with a different warning or ask the chair of the original panel to review their decision in the light of new evidence.

The appeal will be heard by a panel of three governors not previously involved in the disciplinary hearing,

The appeal panel must consist of at least the same number of governors as at the previous hearing.

Where an appeal against dismissal is not upheld, the date of termination will be the date on which the employee was originally dismissed. During the appeal stage the employee will remain dismissed from the school. If an employee is reinstated following dismissal, they will be treated as being continuously employed for the whole period, including the period between dismissal and reinstatement.

The decision of the appeal panel will be final and must be reported to the governing body.

21. Procedure for the Appeal Hearing

The procedure for the appeal hearing will be as set out as follows, although this list is not exhaustive:

- a) The appellant (or their representative) will outline the grounds of their appeal
- b) The chairperson of the disciplinary hearing and the appeal hearing panel will have the opportunity to question the appellant or their representative
- c) The disciplinary hearing chairperson who issued the warning shall outline the details of the allegation and explain the reasons behind their decision
- d) The appellant (or their representative) and the appeal hearing panel will have the opportunity to question the chairperson of the disciplinary hearing
- e) The chair of the appeal hearing will then invite the chairperson of the disciplinary hearing and the appellant to each make a concluding statement
- f) Both parties will then withdraw whilst the panel considers the evidence.

The decision will be confirmed in writing to the employee within three working days. There will be no further right of appeal following the appeal hearing and the matter may not be pursued through any other procedure, such as the Grievance or Harassment and Bullying procedure.

22. Difficulties that may arise during Disciplinary Hearings

Listed below are some examples, with suggestions on how they might be handled:

a) Failure to attend by the employee

If no adequate reason is given, consider whether the case can be heard in the employee's absence.

b) New evidence presented at the hearing

One of the parties presents new evidence at the start of or during the hearing. The panel should accept new evidence only if there are compelling reasons that prevented the exchange of evidence in the normal timescale. If the evidence is admitted, depending on the complexity, then it might be necessary to allow an adjournment (to reconvene later that day or possibly another day) to allow time to read and for the other party to consider and prepare a response.

A witness reveals a crucial piece of evidence that is not known to anyone else present. The panel should adjourn the hearing to consider whether to admit the new evidence. If the new evidence is so significant as to affect the likely fairness of the outcome of the hearing, then the panel may adjourn the hearing to another day to allow the investigating officer to extend their investigation and / or to enable the employee to prepare their response.

23. Disciplinary Records

While potential disciplinary action outlined in the formal warning will expire at the end of the specified period, there may, however, be exceptional occasions when the warning cannot be disregarded, such as where the conduct is satisfactory throughout the period the warning is in force, only to lapse very soon thereafter. Where a pattern emerges, an employee's disciplinary record will be borne in mind in deciding how long any new warning will last.

Spent disciplinary sanctions must only be declared to a prospective employer if the reason for the sanction concerns safeguarding children. Sanctions for other reasons will not be declared to prospective employers after they are spent.

Details of allegations that are found to have been malicious should be removed from personnel records. However, for all other allegations, it is important that a clear and comprehensive summary of the allegation, details of how the allegation was followed up and resolved, and a note of any action taken and decisions reached, is kept on the confidential personnel file of the employee, and details provided to the employee concerned.

The purpose of the record is to enable accurate information to be given in response to any future request for a reference, where appropriate. It will provide clarification in cases where future DBS checks reveal information from the police about an allegation that did not result in a criminal conviction and it will help to prevent unnecessary re-investigation if, as sometimes happens, an allegation re-surfaces after a period of time. The record should be retained at least until the employee has reached normal retirement age or for a period of 10 years from the date of the allegation if that is longer.

The Information Commissioner has published guidance on employment records in its Employment Practices Code and supplementary guidance, which provides some practical advice on employment retention. Supplementary Guidance

24. Resignations and Settlement Agreements

There are specific requirements in relation to handling allegations concerning the safety and welfare of children and young people. In summary these are:

- a) Allegations concerning the safety and welfare of children must be investigated and heard even if the employee has resigned. The school must reach a conclusion of the investigation (for making a referral) whether or not the ex-employee co-operates in the proceedings
- b) "Settlement Agreement" is a legal device to terminate the employee's contract in which an employer agrees not to pursue a disciplinary process and an employee agrees not to pursue any legal claim against the employer. Where there are allegations concerning the safety and welfare of children, a Settlement Agreement must not be used

25. Referrals to Statutory Bodies

There are statutory duties on employers to refer individual cases to national bodies in the event of a dismissal or resignation when dismissal was a likely outcome. These are:

25.1. Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS)

The Protection of Freedoms Act 2012 (PoFA) places a duty on employers of people working with children or vulnerable adults to make a referral to the DBS in certain circumstances. This is when an employer has dismissed or removed a person from working with children or vulnerable adults (or would or may have if the person had not left or resigned etc.) because the person has:

1. been cautioned or convicted for a relevant offence
2. engaged in relevant conduct in relation to children and / or vulnerable adults (i.e., an action or inaction (neglect) that has harmed a child or vulnerable adult or put them at risk of harm)
3. satisfied the Harm Test in relation to children and /or vulnerable adults. (i.e., there has been no relevant conduct (i.e., no action or inaction) but a risk of harm to a child or vulnerable adult still exists).

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/dbs-referrals-form-and-guidance>

Once referred and having followed their process the DBS will make decisions as to whether it is appropriate for a person to be placed on a barred list preventing them from working with children, vulnerable adults or both in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

25.2. Referrals for teachers to the Teaching Regulation Agency:

The Education Act 2011 gives responsibility, from 1 April 2012 to the Secretary of State to regulate the teaching profession and to hold a list of teachers who have been prohibited from teaching.

The Teachers' Disciplinary (England) Regulations 2012 provide information about the arrangements. The Teaching Regulation Agency operates the arrangements on behalf of the Secretary of State.

The regulatory arrangements cover cases of serious misconduct, where it is appropriate to decide about whether a teacher should be prohibited from teaching.

If a teacher has been dismissed for serious misconduct or would have been dismissed for that reason if they had not resigned, the employer must consider whether to refer the case to the Secretary of State. Referrals may also be made by the Police, the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS), other regulators or members of the public. Before a referral is made by a member of the public, all local procedures for complaint resolution should have been exhausted. More information about making a referral can be found at: <https://www.gov.uk/teacher-misconduct-referring-a-case>.

The regulatory arrangements apply to anyone undertaking teaching work in all schools, including independent schools and sixth form colleges, youth custody settings and children's homes, in England. This includes headteachers and their assistants and deputies.

Appendix 1 - Examples of Misconduct

- Poor timekeeping (i.e., lateness / leaving early) and attendance standards
- Work not of the required standard (where capability is not in question)
- Failure to follow reasonable management instructions
- Inappropriate behaviour e.g., not cooperating with work colleagues to fulfil their job role
- Minor breaches of policy.

Examples of Gross Misconduct

Please indicate your grounds for appeal for sections A to D and provide further detail in the section at the end.
A. Breach of procedure
I am appealing on the grounds that the procedure was applied unfairly. YES <input type="checkbox"/> NO <input type="checkbox"/> If you selected "YES", please explain: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • how and where the procedure was not followed • what effect this had on the outcome of the disciplinary process • any evidence not available at the original hearing that supports this aspect of your appeal, and • what prevented you from presenting it.

B. The facts of the case

I am appealing on the grounds that the findings at the hearing were unfair.

YES

NO

If you selected "YES", please explain:

- the parts or facts you dispute
- the evidence that you believe was given too much or too little weight
- if you are disputing the conclusions that were arrived at by the chair / panel, please detail these
- any evidence not available at the original hearing that supports your appeal.

C. The action taken was disproportionate

I am appealing on the grounds that the action taken was disproportionate to the circumstances of the case:

YES

NO

If you selected 'YES', please explain:

- the sanction or warning that was applied
- the aspect of the sanction or warning that you believe is disproportionate
- the reason why you believe it is disproportionate
- any evidence not available at the original hearing that supports this aspect of your appeal; and
- what prevented you from presenting it.

D. Any other substantial grounds of appeal

I am appealing for another substantial reason:

YES

NO

If you selected 'YES', please explain:

- the grounds on which you are appealing
- its effect on the procedure followed
- its effect on the findings of fact at the original hearing
- its effect on the sanction applied
- any evidence not available at the original hearing that supports this aspect of your appeal; and
- what prevented you from presenting it.
